Griffs Capture First Game From Rowland's Tribe

Nationals Hand White Sox Crew Zeros and Harper Annexes Victory.

That cocked-eyed, or south end of H st that old pill. If there is any doubt just ask Eddie Cicotte, hurler extranary of the Chicago White Sox sa the Nationals stepped into the siants of this "shine-ball" heaver and amnexed yesterday's contest to the winning side of the ledger from the Windy City outht by a 2-to-0 count. The assortment that Clootte was serving up proved easy pickings for out lads, as they stopped into his twisters and pushed through tailles in the second and fifth seasion. It was a pitchers' duel over the route with Harry Harper, the Hackensack metal dealer, having the bingles was the allotment that Harry handed "Pants" Rowland's tribe. Two of these bingles are carded among the variety of scratch hits. Buck Weaver being one in that White Stocking outfit that yot anything near the resemblance of a clean blow.

Haryer was given extraordinary support, as Sammy Rice made a sense tional catch of Clootte's line drive in the third inning while Housed Diagnes in the third inning while Housed Diagnes in the condition of the sixth liming.

Outside of the lucky seventh Harper was never in danger, but Buck Waver opened this session with a slashing drive in Menoskey's way. E. Colliss them forced Weaver at the midway station. Eddle took on a little of his airpiane stuff and stole second base, but "Shoeless" loo Jackson and Happy. Felach went out in the order named.

It was her adjusted the Griffmen to put their first taily over in the second inning. "Fatima" Foster led off in the fifth with a drive to left field and went to third when Morgan slashed one through the center garden. Eddle Gharrity then came through with an-other blow and "Fatima" tallied while Morgan moved to second. A fast double play, Jackson to Risberg, killed off the chances in this session. The

CAN CONSCRIPTION DEFEAT WHITE SOX

To what extent the conscription may play its part in deciding the penant races is evidenced in the case of the White Sox. Death Valley Jim Scott has announced he will probably be Russ-Graney Smith Montage 10. ordered to report at an officers' train-ing camp late this month. He has ed the physical examination, Jim says he realizes he would be of some value to Comiskey's crowd, but feels that his duty calls him to put on the uniform of Uncle Sam in place of the one he now wears on the base-ball field. The loss of Scott may play a large part. But then there are Gandil, Weaver, Felsh and Scott who have also been called for examination for the new conscripted army. All are married and will claim exemption, as far as can be learned, but whether they will be able to get off is not certain. Other clubs are all affected.

New York, Aug. 8.—The idea that all the famous Athletics of four years ago, with the 100,000 infield, for the benefit of the Red Cross, was suggested here today.

It is pointed out that all the men who must be gathered together from a half dozen clubs to rejoin Connie Mack will be playing in the East and could make the jump to New York over night.

McInnis, Strunk, Schang and Bush still are with the Athletica. Collins and Murphy are with the White Sox: Barry, Walsh and Pennock, with the Yankees; Plank in St. Louis: Bender with the Phillies and Coombs with Brooklyn. Outfielder Oldring has left the game.

THREE WHITE SOX EXAMINED.

Candil, Weaver and Felsch, Merried Men, Ask Exemption.

Chick Gandil. Buck Weaver and Change of the Starm of the Cincinnati club, made this announcement shortly after his arrival here to attend a meeting of the National Commission. If the same rule is to be followed, it means that several ballplayers who are otherwise physically fit for service in the army appears to be erroneous. Heinie Groh, third base-man of the Cincinnati Reds, received orders several days ago to report for examination, and Heinie reported.

He got away well in the physical test until one of the examiners noted that his fingers were not as straight as they should be. At various times during his baseball career Groh had smashed his fingers in fleiding batted or thrown balls, and they did not "cock back." As a result Groh was rejected by the examining board.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug 5.—The feature race, the Alabama stakes for 3-year-olds at a mile and a quarter, the outstanding feature of a good card, was won landily by Bun Bonnet, carrying 124 pounds, with Jockey Loftus in the saddie. Wistful was second, a length in front of Fairy Wand, while Columbine who had a good deal of the public's money on him, finished outside of the money.

First Ballot came to life in the third number on the program, when he casily defeated Precise and Thornbill for the long end of the purse. Deer Trap, the favorite in the memory brokers book, failed to land inside of the coveted three hôles. His race was a decided disappointment, as he was looked upon as the best thing of the day.

Syosset, the old campaigner, had no difficulty in accounting for the steeple-chase. He was an outstanding fav rite of the day and well rewarded the confidence reposed in him by the public. Curraghleen, lightly weighted with 131 pounds on his back, was second, while Bally Bay was third. The winner conceded about 29 pounds to everything in the race, and had no difficulty in winning the event.

Hank O'Day who is running in consistent form, was a winner of the fifth race by a healthy margin from the Butler entry—Chiclet—while Hendrie was third.

High Cost repeated his last race and accounted for the closing number on the card, defeating Atalanta in hollow

The War Department team is now the champion aggregation of the Departmental Tennis League, winning the title yesterday afternoon on the Columbia Country Club courts by trimming the Navy racqueters five straight.

Col. E. B. Babbitt. president of the War Department organization, expected a hard fight and so coaxed William A. Larned, former national, champion, and also a captain in the Signal Corps and eligible to play, to be on hand. "Bill" was, but his presence was really not necessary as the War representatives had it all over their opponents from the other arm of the service.

Larned and Ed. Leech, playing as No. 1, for the Soldlers, had an easy time of it beating Hancock and Mann 6-2, 6-0. Larned is, of course, not the player he was years ago, but he showed enough yesterday to satisfy the small gallery on hand. His stroke was working to perfection and, as a general proposition, he was very sure on his returns. He has slowed up considerably, but still shows enough "pep" to make anybody hustle and he certainly did it yesterday. Leech also played a good game and was always on hand when wanted. Hancock was the star of the Navy pair and his work was exceptionally good except in occasional losses of control in his service.

The fight between the Number 2 teams was an interesting one. Pratt and Gore beating Bates and Burton, a 7-6, 6-3. Majors Will Not Recall Their Players by August 20.

New York, Aug. 8.—Players farmed out to minor league clubs by the majorts will not have to report back by August 20 this year, it became known here today. By a special ruling the National Commission has made the recall of players optional with the big league clubs. The old rule was made to protect such players from the draft, but owing to conditions that have arisen as a result of the war the commission deemed it advisable to change the code.

Flayers under contract to major league clubs will be protected, and the minor league clubs with which they are playing will benefit by retaining their services until the pennant races are finished.

As August drifts along toward September and the homestretch, base-ball now has one vital detail left to absorb such fanatical interest as may not be overshadowed and obscured by the war. This is the detail as to whether it will be the Chicago White Sox or the Boston Red Sox who are the New York Giants in the next world or the Boston Red Sox and series classic.

The rest of it is now viitten on the slate. Barring a terrific upheaval, Ty Cobb has regaine his place at the top, rounding out his tenth year of summit tenantcy.

But the affair between the White Sox and the Red Sox is still to be concluded in our next.

White we Red

White vs. Red.

Up to a week ago we looked to the Red Sex for American League victory. We still believed this club, even when five and a half games behind, would hammer its way to the peak again and enter its third behind, would hammer its way to the peak again and enter its third world series in succession.

When the White Sox lost three straight to the Yanks and dropped two games in succession to the Red Sox, falling from a five-game lead into second place, the argument appeared to be over.

But the White Sox are quite evidently not the White Sox of other years. In place of breaking wide open, a natural sequel to losing such a lead within a week's time, Comiskey's team rallied, formed again and recaptured the front line trenches with something to spare.

This series now looks to be the turning point of the race. For it means that Chlcago's leading entry is almost sure to reach home with a fair margin of leadership, and once back home it is almost sure to increase this lead by a healthy gap.

Figure it out. For the next few weeks the White Sox meet Washington, New York, Philadelphia and Boston—mostly at home—while the Red Sox tackle Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland and St. Louis—mostly on the road. If there is anything left in the highly vulnerable dope the schedule for the next few weeks—for the remainder of August—is all Chicago's way.

ule for the next few weeks—for the remainder of August—is all Chicago's way.

This should mean, if form runs true to past records, that Chicago should face her last Eastern trip in September with a fat lead to work on—a lead too bulky for Boston to cut away unless her 1917 play improves 60 per cent.

The White Sox are in the lead, with Collins and Jackson both batting far below 300. These two have been batting better the last two months than at any time before. They are due to start back toward 308. If they do, there will be little else to it. But even if they don't, Boston has a harder job beyond her the next two months than she has ever faced before. It isn't an impossible job, but it is beginning to verge on the same.

Offense and Victory.

The strongest offense may mean ultimate victory in war. We have never heard this argument debated.

It has been proved that it doesn't always mean victory in football. It has been proved still further that it doesn't mean victory in baseball. The Tigers have been running from eight to ten games back of the top all year. Yet they have scored more runs to date than any other club in either league. They carry the wallop and the run-making skill far beyond all rivalry. But their defense isn't powerful enough to save them.

them. You would think that a ball club able to make more runs each year rught to win—as ball games are settled by the number of runs scored. Perhaps it ought to. But Detroit has proved that it doesn't. The smashing Tiger attack cen get the runs. At the last count Detroit has becomed 422 runs to 412 for Chicage and 376 for Boston. Yet her team was lagging badly, with only a faint, gray chance of ever reaching the top. Runs may win games and games may win pennants, but apparently runs don't win pennants.

Ask Hughey Jennings if you don't believe us.

In sport's contribution to war funds there is the genial game of cricket, which only recently in this country contributed over $4,000 to the British Red Cross. "We will stand unshaken to the end" says the Kalser. As unshaken as the Pittsburgh Pirates or the rollicking Browns.

Russia has been working on the ancient theory that the greatest art self-defense is 100 yards in 9 2-5 seconds. Fritz Maisel, batting 210, is still third in stolen bases. If Fritz was batting above 300 he would be a mile in front of the next man as a base runner. But, as Chief Bender once sagely remarked: "It's a tough jo stealing first."

Minor league ball players, who have been drafted before by th Browns, Pirates, etc., should be more than acclimated now to any draf-the army can put through
